Request from Street Artists Advisory Board for Clarification of Family Unit Requirements.

The Street Artists Advisory Board has in the past year had applications for Family Unit status from multiple parties which seemed excessive for the craft item being produced, such as 8 people to make a kite, or 3 people to make a key chain blank for engraving. The Street Artists blue book contains no specific statements regarding limits on the size of family units, but overly large units, besides increasing the unit members odds in the lottery for street spaces, ~~would~~ also seem to be not in keeping with the philosophy of the program. Art Commission Resolution 1981-984 defines "Handcrafted Item" as "...an item that shall consist of components predominantly created or altered in form by the Street Artist or Craftsperson." Family Unit regulations require that each item be worked on by every member of the family unit. While we do not want to have a specific limit on the number of members of family units, we request clarification on whether or not it is within our jurisdiction to decide that, if each member of the unit is actually involved in the production of each item as required, a unit is too large for each member to make a significant contribution, to "~~part~~ create or alter in form" enough to constitute actual hand-craft, rather than be a part of an assembly line. We would like to be able

To consider each application on a case by case basis.
as, even within a specific craft category, each member may make a contribution unique to his skills, but the production of rectangular pieces of brass for engraving blanks should not require the efforts of a group of people.
